EXPAND YOUR INTELLIGENCE RING BY ADDING EYES AND EARS BEYOND THE PERAMETERS OF YOUR CAMPUS Private sector security is, generally speaking, void of a surveillance detection element. Confusion between the use of a uniformed security guard force and an operational surveillance detection presence is widespread. At SDConsultants our goal is to demystify surveillance detection and bring the private sector up to speed on this powerful, preventative measure that has been reserved for protecting heads of state, government resources, and the wealthy elite. Our belief is that the more large corporations implement SD as a part of their security plan, the less attackers will be successful at targeting executives, their families, and corporate personnel and facilities. At present, the private sector is pouring money into security, and yet companies still rely on government agencies and law enforcement to 'hopefully' give them sufficient early warning that their campus is being targeted. By integrating an SD element into the overall security effort, not only are you able to exponentially increase the effectiveness of all of your security measures, but also you are able to provide on-site, real-time intelligence about impending threats. You get to take control of receiving early warning that your campus/personnel/executives are being targeted. For operational security reasons you will never see your company listed as a client on our website or in any promotional materials.
